Let's Start!

We're going on vacation!

Learning Outcome

Describe hypothetical situations in written and spoken interactions according to work and social contexts.

Ask your partner:

- Tell a friend what you are doing next weekend.
- What do you hope for in the future?

Can Do Statements

- I can talk about emotions, personal qualities and behavior.
- I can talk about future action.
- I can talk about what I will be doing or what I will have done.

Let's Explore!

Vanessa and Sally pack lightly!

* To "pack lightly" is to bring a small amount of clothing and baggage on a trip.

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

- Vanessa: Sulking is not going to make him come back! You will feel better soon. Next week you will have completely forgotten him!
- Sally: I had no idea he was married. Oh well, you're right. At this time tomorrow, we will be watching the sunset on a beach.
- Vanessa: Being on a plane is so cramped. Do you think they will bump us up to first class?
- Sally: I hope they do. I am going to pray that they do. When we arrive in Jamaica, it will be hot and sunny. By this time tomorrow, we will have checked into our hotel room and eaten spicy Jamaican food for dinner.
- Vanessa: I hope so. I have to pack. Are you bringing sunscreen because I'd rather not. I want to pack as lightly as I can.
- Sally: The Caves is the most stunning resort. We'll sit on the cliffs, we'll go to the spa ... Actually, we are both having a massage the day after tomorrow. The spa is open every day from 9:00 to 5:00, so, I've already booked them.
- Vanessa: Snorkeling is the thing I really have to do! The last time I tried it, an aggressive man got drunk on the boat and picked a fight with the captain. We had to turn around and come back. They refunded our money, but I had to go back home the next day.
- Sally: Let's hope there aren't any saboteurs on our holiday.
- Vanessa: Feeling relaxed is all I care about. Did you know that in two days I will have lived in the US for four years? Hopefully I will be living here for another four! I will have worked at Bistro 88 for two years. Isn't that mind-blowing?
- Sally: Plus, next week I will have been in this world for just over a quarter of a century.

Let's Practice!

Sally and Vanessa talk about what they will have done in Jamaica.

Instructions: Underline the correct option.

1. Next week you will be / will have / will completely forgotten him!
2. By this time tomorrow, we will be checking / will have checked / will check into our hotel room and eaten spicy Jamaican food for dinner.
3. Did you know that in two days I will have lived / will have living / will lived in the US for four years?
4. Plus, next week I will be / am going to be / will have been in this world for just over a quarter of a century.
5. Next week, I will be working / will work / will have worked at Bistro 88 for two years.

Let's Practice!

Being with friends is the best!

Instructions: Organize the mystery sentence.

1. not / Sulking / to / ! / is / him / back / make / come / going

2. plane / so / a / . / is / Being / cramped / on

3. I / ! / really / sometime / do / something / to / have / Snorkeling / is

4. relaxed / . / Feeling / is / days / care / all / I / these / about

5. Traveling / him / to / is / the / worrying / way / best / about / stop / !

Extension Activity

Plan a Vacation.

Instructions: Complete the following steps. Fill in the Self-Assessment.

- Think of a place you want to go on vacation.
- Research the place (online or in a magazine) including accommodations, activities and flights.
- Write out an itinerary including the times of the flights (use simple present for schedules).
- Write down some of the details including activities you will do and plans of what you are doing on specific days (use various future verb tenses such as present continuous for specific plans and will/going to for intentions and future continuous for imagining what you will be doing).
- Tell a friend about the trip and find out if they want to come with you.

Self-Assessment

Yes No

I think of a vacation destination.

Target Words

- sulking (noun): the action of being sullen or withdrawn, as in silent resentment or protest e.g. Sulking is not going to make him come back!
- cramped (adjective): tight and with very little space to move around e.g. Being on a plane is so cramped.
- to bump someone up (verb): to raise someone to a better category or level e.g. Do you think they will bump us up to first class?
- to pick a fight (verb): to intentionally start an argument or physical altercation e.g. An aggressive man got drunk on the boat and picked a fight with the captain.
- to refund (verb): to give money back after a service or product that was considered unsatisfactory e.g. They refunded our money, but I had to go back home the next day.
- saboteur (noun): a person who destroys or damages something deliberately e.g. Let's hope there aren't any saboteurs on our holiday.
- mind-blowing (adjective): producing euphoria; psychedelic
e.g. I will have worked at Bistro 88 for two years. Isn't that mind-blowing?

Learning Points

The Future Continuous and Future Perfect Tenses vs. Regular Future Tenses

You use the Future Continuous tense to express actions that occur in the future.

For example:

I will be working at 4 p.m. tomorrow.

The person will start work at some point in the future and be working at 4 p.m. It is not clear when the person will stop working.

The structure of the Future Continuous is:

Subject + will + be + verb -ing

Hopefully I will be living here for another four years!

You use the Future Perfect tense to express actions that will be finished at a specific time in the future.

For example:

I can call you in the early afternoon. I will have arrived in Houston by then.

The movie will start at 8 p.m. You will get to the movie theater at 8:15 p.m. By the time you get to the movie theater, the movie will have started.

The structure of the Future Perfect tense is:

Subject + will + have + past participle

I will have worked at Bistro 88 for two years.

Look at the chart for a comparison of the other tenses used to talk about the future.

Learning Points

Name	Use	Example
The Modal Will	talk about things that are not decided; make a decision at the moment of speaking for the future; make predictions	You will feel better soon. Do you think they will bump us up to first class?
Be going to	talk about intentions	Sulking is not going to make him come back!
Present Continuous	talk about things that are arranged, on the agenda or booked for the future	Are you bringing sunscreen because I'd rather not. Actually, we are both having a massage the day after tomorrow.
Simple Present	talk about schedules	The spa is open every day from 9:00 to 5:00.

Examples:

- We'll sit on the cliffs, we'll go to the spa ...
- When we arrive in Jamaica it will be hot and sunny.
- By this time tomorrow, we will have checked into our hotel room and eaten spicy Jamaican food for dinner.
- Plus, next week I will have been in this world for just over a quarter of a century.
- I will have worked at Bistro 88 for two years.
- Next week you will have completely forgotten him!
- Hopefully I will be living here for another four years.

Learning Points

Gerunds

When a verb ends in -ing, it may be a present participle or it may be a gerund.

When you use a verb + ing form more like a verb or an adjective, it is usually a present participle:

Vanessa is shopping.

The movie is exciting.

When we use a verb in -ing form more like a noun, it is usually a gerund:

You should think of a gerund as a verb in noun form.

Like nouns, gerunds can be the subject of a sentence:

Sulking is not going to make him come back!*

Gerunds are sometimes called "verbal nouns".

Examples:

- Feeling relaxed is all I care about.
- Snorkeling is the thing I really have to do!
