Let's Start!

My ideas about the future.

Learning Outcome

Describe situations in spoken interactions according to social contexts.

Ask your partner:

- Do you like to think about the future? Why or why not?
- Can you imagine what your life will be like in thirty or forty years?

Can Do Statements

- I can talk about money, emotions, and behavior.
- I can talk about future action.
- I can talk about what I will be doing or what I will have done.

Let's Explore!

Vanessa and Sally talk about their financial futures!

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

Vanessa: Well that was a whirlwind vacation. I can't believe it's finished! By the time we arrive home, I'll be in the red. I will have racked up a huge bill and it'll be more than I can pay back in a couple of months! I am going to stay home and watch a lot of television. I'm not spending any money for the next little while.

Sally: It was worth it though.

Vanessa: It was worth every penny. What's on your agenda for the next week?

Sally: I'm visiting my financial advisor to chat about what to do with my investments. I'm going to try some higher risk investments. By this time next week I will have changed my entire financial profile. I will also have started a new blog.

Vanessa: Tomorrow, I'll be yelling at everyone in the kitchen, no doubt! Back to the grind! I'll be working extra hours to pay off the trip and, after a while I will start putting some away.

Sally: What are you doing with the money you save?

Vanessa: I'll invest in real estate probably. I've also begun a small retirement plan that I want to expand.

Sally: Retirement?

Vanessa: I hope I will be enjoying financial freedom at an old age.

We'll be sitting on benches and feeding the birds before you know it. By that point, I will have accumulated a large enough nest egg that I won't have to worry. I just like to be prepared. It's just a matter of having some restraint which I certainly did not have on our holiday! We'd better go to bed now. Our plane leaves at 7 a.m.

Sally: Goodnight V!

Learning Points

The Future Continuous and Future Perfect Tenses

You use the Future Continuous tense to talk about something happening at a particular time in the future.

You use the Future Perfect tense to talk about an action in the future before another action in the future. This is the past in the future.

When you use the Future Continuous tense, the action will have started before that moment but it will not have finished at that moment.

For example:

I will be studying at the library at 4 p.m. tomorrow.

The person will start studying at some point in the future and be studying at 4 p.m. It is not clear when the person will stop studying.

When you use the Future Perfect, you can sometimes think of the Future Perfect tense like the Present Perfect tense, but instead of your viewpoint being in the present, it is in the future.

For example:

You can call me at work at 8 a.m. I will have arrived at the office by 8.

The train will leave the station at 9 a.m. You will arrive at the station at 9:15 a.m. When you arrive, the train will have left.

Look at the chart for the structure of the Future Continuous and Future Perfect tenses:

| Name              | Structure                            | Example                                                                      |
|-------------------|--------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Future Continuous | will (not) + be + verb -ing   | Tomorrow I'll be yelling at everyone in the kitchen, no doubt! |
| Future Perfect    | will + have + past participle | I will have racked up a huge bill.                             |

Examples:

- I will have racked up a huge bill.
- Tomorrow I'll be yelling at everyone in the kitchen, no doubt!
- I'll be working extra hours to pay off the trip, and after a while I will start putting some away.
- I hope I will be enjoying financial freedom at an old age.
- We'll be sitting on benches and feeding the birds before you know it.
- By that point I will have accumulated a large enough nest egg that I won't have to worry.

Learning Points

Talking About Future Actions

You can use four different tenses to talk about the future.

When you talk about a things that are not decided or when you make a decision at the moment of speaking for the future, you use the modal will.

When you ask about intentions, you use be going to.

When you talk about things that are arranged, on the agenda or booked for the future, you use the Present Continuous tense.

When you talk about schedules, you use the Simple Present.

|                           |                                                               |
|---------------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------|
| Will        | I'll invest in real estate probably.                   |
| Be going to | I am going to stay home and watch a lot of television. |
| Present Continuous | I'm not spending any money for the next little while.  |
| Simple Present     | Our plane leaves at 7 a.m.                             |
